are a nation of immigrants.
But that's not what
America's Founders had in mind.

Today's Politicians vs. The Founding Fathers

"Well, I am hard pressed to think of a single problem that would be solved by shutting off the supply of willing and eager new Americans. If anything ... we should be thinking about increasing legal immigration."

Rep. Dick Arme, R-TX,

"I want to see America stay a nation of immigrants. And if we lose our Northern European stock -- your coloring and mine, blue eyes and fair hair -- tough!"

Former Rep. Robert Dornan, R-CA

"[We] have immigrants coming here to America, and by getting here and getting a foothold and getting a job and building a life, that they are reaching out as each of us would do if we came from somewhere else, and they are trying to bring their mama and their daddy and their sisters and brothers and their cousins and their aunts to America. So what?"

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-TX

"My opinion with respect to immigration is, that except of useful mechanics and some particular description of men and professions, there is no use of encouragement."

George Washington, 1794

"The influx of foreigners must, therefore, tend to produce a heterogeneous compound; to change and corrupt the national spirit; to complicate and confound public opinion; to introduce foreign propensities. In the composition of society, the harmony of the ingredients is all important, and whatever tends to a discordant intermixture must have an injurious tendency."

Alexander Hamilton, 1802

"[Immigrants] will bring with them the principles of the governments they leave, or if able to throw them off, it will be in exchange for an unbridled licentiousness, passing, as usual, from one extreme to another. It would be a miracle were they to stop precisely at the point of temperate liberty."

Thomas Jefferson, 1782
